AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS

1999 Conference

Academic Values in the Transformation of American Medicine The University and the Academic Health Center

May 20–23, Omni Parker House Hotel, Boston

In 1996 the American Association of University Professors responded to questions being raised in academic medical centers about changes in faculty status and threats to academic freedom by issuing a report, "Tenure in the Medical School."

These concerns and evolving assumptions in work and salary practices motivated AAUP to plan a 1999 conference to examine strategies for ensuring that faculty values are incorporated in the process of change.

Keynote Speaker: William H. Danforth, M.D., chair of the Board of Trustees, Washington University

The conference is being underwritten by the Josiah Macy Foundation and the AAUP's Academic Freedom Fund.

To register or for information about the 16 concurrent panels and sessions at the conference, visit AAUP online at www.aau.org or call 1-800-424-2973, or e-mail aau@aaup.org.
